The above establishment is now undergoing a thorough repair, and will be ready for the reception of company in a few days. The house is nearly new, having been built but a few months and will be furnished with new beds and furniture, and kept under the direction of the subscriber, of the Pilgrim House, Plymouth, Mass., where he hopes by personal attention, and a judicious selection of attendants, to receive a share of public patronage.

DANVILLE BRYANT.

WARREN HOUSE.

At the junction of Merrimack and Friend Streets.

This establishment having now gone through extensive and thorough repairs and alterations, is now furnished with every other public house of its size. It has been furnished from top to bottom with new furniture, bedding, carpeting, &c., and is now open for the accommodation of travellers.

It is the intention to conduct the House after the mode of the most approved public houses—and every effort will be made personally, and by well tried assistants, to please his former custom and those who may visit the Warren House for the first time.

Extensive stables, with pure water, is attached to the establishment.

AZARIAH PROCTOR.

23

RAILWAY HOUSE, MILTON, MASS.

The subscriber respectfully informs the public that he has taken a lease of this extensive house, and newly refitted and furnished it throughout with every article necessary for the accommodation and comfort of travellers, convivial parties and boarders.

A beautiful grove with pleasant walks, a garden, swing, &c. are connected with this establishment, and its proximity to the equestrian is an inviting place of resort for those who may desire to spend a short time away from the confusion and squalor of a crowded place of business.

The bowing alleys have been newly relaid, and good attendants provided.

The larder will be stored with the best of provisions, and such delicacies as the seasons afford. The bar will also be kept supplied with choice wines and liquors. Good stabling for horses.

The Dorchester and Milton line of stages leave for Boston every morning and noon, and return at noon and evening.

ject of slavery, where by the laws of the said State, Territory, or District, their circulation is prohibited; and any deputy postmaster who shall be guilty thereof, shall be forthwith removed from office.

S E C. 2. And be it further enacted, That nothing in the acts of Congress, to establish and regulate the Post Office Department, shall be construed to protect any of my postmastes, mail carrier, or other officer or agent of said Department, who shall knowingly circulate, in any State, Territory, or District, as aforesaid, any such pamphlet, newspaper, handbill, or other printed paper or pictorial representation, forbidden by the laws of such State, Territory, or District.

S E C. 3. And be it further enacted, That the deputy postmasters of the offices where the pamphlets, newspapers, handbills, or other printed papers or pictorial representations aforesaid, may arrive for delivery, shall, under the instructions of the Post Master General, from time to time give notice of the same, so that they may be withdrawn, by the person who deposited them originally to be mailed, and if the same shall not be withdrawn in one month thereafter, shall be burnt or otherwise destroyed."

Does any one really censure Mr Van Buren for giving his vote for the above law? Is it true that the casting of that vote renders him unworthy of "becoming the Representative of a free people?" We call on the Whigs to apply this same rule to Judge White or Gen. Harrison, for one of whom it must be their present determination to vote in the House of Representatives in order to prevent Mr. Van Buren's election. If voting for that bill be a disqualification, then White and Harrison are hors du combat in the coming contest.

But, really and truly, he must be a very wise man who can discover such evil in this brief law. Let us examine into its provisions. The whole force of the statute is this, viz. In slave States, where the laws of the State prohibit the circulation of printed and engraved papers calculated to excite insurrection among the slaves, a postmaster who wilfully violates those laws shall be removed from his office.

This law extends only to newspapers, pamphlets and other printed documents, and pictures. It extends only to known and wilful breaches of the law. It merely serves as a Congressional declaration that no officer of the United States shall be exempted from those laws which the State wherein he resides may deem necessary to its safety. It simply says that the General Government will not, knowingly scatter the elements of strife and danger, of fear and death amongst the citizens of any state wherein exists the curse of slavery.

Nothing calculated to appease the alarm and allay the angry excitement of the south upon certain well known and agitating questions growing out of the slave system, could have been made less objectionable than this law. The law was demanded by the existing crisis, and it is consistent with the provisions of the Constitution. The only surprising fact in regard to the Act is that any one should have voted against it. It is by no means matter of surprise that the Whigs, now that Mr. Van Buren secured the passage of that Act, unite their voices in condemning his conduct, for they are as prompt to complain of his conduct as hungry wolves are to "bay the moon," and in both cases the howlings are none the less clamorous because wholly impotent.

It is but a short time since the burden of lamentation with the Whigs was far different from the tenor of this Resolution. Then the cry was "non-committal!" Then they charged upon Mr. Van Buren as his worst offence, the alleged fact that he never said or did any thing from which his opinions might be learned or inferred. How completely changed is the voice of their complaining! How inconsistent is their course of conduct. If we might argue of their sex by the classic

"Semper varium et mutabile," we should pronounce them a set of notional old women. He who attempts to follow all their windings and take note of all their changes will find that he is chasing a will-o'-the-wisp—pursuing a political Proteus—

Quoniam transformatae in nocturnis rerum,
Ignemque, horribilique terram, fluvionique inuentem."

Of the Resolutions which remain unnoticed by us, as they contain little besides glorification of the Whig candidates, nothing need be said. We leave them "alone in their glory." In regard to the address to the People which followed up this string of Resolutions, we may hereafter say more; for the present we merely remark that it is an amplification of the assertions contained in them, and nothing more—"all sound and fury, signifying nothing."

We do not seek a stronger proof of the low estate of the Federal party, than is furnished by both the Resolutions and the Address. These papers, like a Doctor's bulletin of some dying patient, exhibit the progress of decay and announce the impending doom. Hoping that the cause of the Whigs may die easily and happily, we commend it to the dust with a hearty "Pax Mabitus."

B.

Dinner to the Hon. Bedford Brown—The offer of a public dinner has been tendered to, and accepted by, Mr. Brown, to be given at the Milton Hotel, Milton, N. C., as a testimony of regard for his independent and truly republican course in the Senate of the United States. A number of distinguished citizens of the democratic party in Virginia as well as North Carolina, have been invited to attend; among them the venerable Nathaniel Macon, his Excellency Richard Dobbs Spaight and the Hon. William C. Rives.

Col. Polk, of Tennessee, has been complimented with a public dinner from his constituents. He is one of the most highminded and able politicians in the nation, and is honored for his talents and integrity by every true democrat in the United States.

Hindoo Exhibition—This exhibition of colored statuary is said to be a very correct representation of the different inhabitants of Hindostan. We should suppose, however, that the figures are not as large as life. This exhibition is certainly worth visiting both as a specimen of the work of the native artists, and of the physiognomy, costume, and general appearance of the inhabitants of that interesting portion of Asia.

Horticultural Exhibition—There was a very elegant variety of fruits and flowers exhibited in the American gallery on Saturday. One cluster of grapes was exhibited there weighing upwards of six pounds, and several others exceeding four pounds. Many specimens of native fruits were to be seen, chiefly the produce of gardens in the immediate vicinity of Boston.

The Bangor Advertiser, in speaking of the American Monthly Magazine, for September, says—

"The first article is a review of Willis—and a most ingeniously, severe, and unjust affair it is. The writer possesses all the venom and virulence without the wit of a satirist. He yields a clearer and forgets the advice, 'let your wit be keen, but at the same time as polished as your sword.'"

The Hon. Elmer Shepley, U. S. Senator from Maine, has been nominated by the Governor of that State associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

According to the Dedham Patriot the ladies there are delighted with the Governor—they say he is a proper pretty man.

Great preparations are being made for the races in New York next month. Post Boy, Mingo, and Clara Howard, are the principal horses that will enter for the four miles heats, the Herald says.

Maryland.—No Senate has been chosen—the Democratic Electors have gone home, and the Federal ones stopped at Annapolis to suck their thumbs.

The Democratic Electors who represented a white population of 205,922 inhabitants, demanded of the federal Electors, who represented a white population of only, 85,179 inhabitants, a promise to vote for eight democratic Senators before the College was organised—the federalists declining to do this, the democratic Electors have resigned their offices without choosing a Senate, and recommend to their fellow citizens throughout the State, to proceed forthwith, to elect on the first Monday of November next, six delegates from each county and city, to meet in Convention at Annapolis, on the third Monday of the same month, clothed with full power to extend the authority of all civil and military officers now in commission, until a Convention hereafter to be chosen, can be convened to amend the old or form an entire new government for the people of Maryland.

The democratic Electors in their communication to the federal Electors, say—

We perceive no cause for apprehension and alarm in the temporary suspension of the powers of the Senate. Therefore, the whole constitution would not be abrogated. The Governor would remain in office long enough to afford time to form a new Constitution, and perform the functions of the Executive Department.

The Judiciary and the officers connected with the courts would experience no interruption of their powers, and all the officers who derive their appointments annually from the Executive are empowered under the forty-ninth article of the Constitution, to hold their offices until they are succeeded by the appointment of others.

The laws, therefore, would be administered—civil rights and private property protected, and the peace of the community preserved, by all the means now employed for that purpose. In the meantime the powers which have been delegated to us, will revert to the people, in whose integrity, virtue, patriotism and intelligence, we have the most entire confidence; and we doubt not but that they, guided by the spirit that animated our fathers in seventy-six, will provide for every exigency that may arise. Before any inconvenience can be experienced, the sovereign power of the people of Maryland will be employed, by means of a convention to reform our Constitution, so as it were nought but could mate for hash for breakfast. Says I—"Docthor, thunder and blood—for my mouth was full of blood—what in the devil are ye afi'ur? D'y want to make an anatomy of a living crathur, ye grave robber ye?" "Sit still," says he—jamming something like a cork-screw into my jowl, and twisting the very sowl out of me. I sat still because the murthering thaef me down with knee, and the gripe of his iron in my lug. He then gave me one awful wring hard enough to wring a wet blanket as dry as gunpowder. Didn't I think the day of judgment was come, tell me? Didn't I see the red fire o' the pit? I felt me head fly off me shoulders, and looking up saw something monstrous bloody in the docthor's wrenching iron—"Is that me head ye've got there," says I—"No, it's only yer tooth," he made answer. "May be it is," said I, as my eyes began to open, and by putting my hand up, I found the outside of my face on, though I felt as if all the inside had been hauled out. I had taken a dollar and a half to pay for the operation—thinking it would be enough for a poor woman to pay; but I thought I'd just ask him the price. So says I, "Docthor, how much may ye ax beside the throuble?" "Fifty cints," says he—"Fifty cints?" says I—"Sure I've not been submitting three days to that tyrant of a tooth for fifty cints,—Troth this same tath-pulling is not so very expansive, and I'm much obligeid til ye, Docthor."

"He reached the Capital (as the elder Adams left it) at midnight. General Green, we understand, had contrived to have a committee in readiness to give him a public and glorious reception. But the Fates are forever interfering with the prompt and rapid marches of the military chieftain of the tiny whigs, and turning them to "delays" that "make the heart sick." The long expected hero, it seems, ran aground in the Potomac, and stuck in the mud so deep that he did not get out until his committee had given up hope, and when he arrived about midnight, he was compelled to make the best of his way to Gadsby's, as a private citizen."

The Ninth District.—The federalists have been labouring under a fit of the horrors for the last month or two, least the voters of this district should take it into their heads to elect Mr Alexander H. Everett, a member of Congress. We don't know why they should manifest so much concern upon the subject, unless it be that they are resolved no one shall hold an office in Massachusetts, if they can prevent it, who has a drop of democratic blood in his veins.

The Bangor Courier claims the election of a democratic representative in Orono as a whig triumph! This is the only sort of triumph the poor whiggies in Maine appear destined to enjoy.

There is more discord among the sons of harmony than among the brethren of any other profession in the world. It seems by a card in the Dedham Patriot, by Mr. Bird, the leader of the choir, at the Centennial Celebration, that both himself and Mr. Coburn wanted to sing Mrs. Hemans' "Pilgrim Fathers,"—and that between them both it was not sung at all. Verily, too many cooks spoil the broth.

They have had a revolution in their Fire Department, at New York. Forty-four of the forty-eight companies tendered their resignations to the City Government on Saturday, and were all discharged except Company No. 31, who are retained to be examined as witnesses relative to the affair. The cause of the trouble is the dismissal of the late Chief Engineer, (Gulick) by the city government, for insubordination. The companies insisted upon his re-appointment, but the council refused to comply.

Melancholy.—On Sunday morning last, the Coroner of Tiverton was summoned to examine the body of Thomas Cook, found dead in a well, on an unfrequented road leading from the Stafford road, easterly. The head was very badly bruised. He fell in while attempting to draw water.

The Boston Light Infantry have been invited to attend the National Theatre on Monday evening. In the course of the military drama the "Tiger Quick Step" by Couer, and the "Winslow Blues Quick Step," by J. H. Dow, will be performed.

Miss C. Barnes makes her first appearance this evening at the Tremont, supported by Mr and Mrs Barnes. Miss B. highly spoken of by the Western critics as a young lady of much talent.

Booth's Iago is an excellent piece of acting when he throws all his power into it; and with Pebley's Othello, Mrs. Anderson's Desdemona, and Mrs. Polley's Amelia, the play to-night cannot fail of being admirably represented at the National.

Tagliani has returned to the French stage after an absence for several months. A Paris paper says the fall of the curtain was the signal for one of those scenes of enthusiasm of which only those who have seen a French audience at a French opera can form an idea.

Jim Crow Rice has gone to Paris to introduce his new style of Opera Singing. Hackett, and the famous Mr. Jones, will be here soon.

The print of Fuz Green Halleck, in the last New York Mirror, is not only a beautiful specimen of art, but a very correct likeness.

An Englishman by the name of Judd, cut his throat on Friday at the New York Broadway hotel, and died instantly.

The acquittal of Shannon, lately tried in New York for arson, has produced much dissatisfaction. There appears to be no doubt of his guilt.

Important to Legislators.—In 1859 the Legislature of Pennsylvania passed a law that none of its members should come to the session barefooted, nor eat their bread and butter on the steps!

Bridget's account of her interview with the Dentist.—"Well, Bridget," says Margery, "How did you get along with the Docthor—what did ye say til hem, and what did he do til ye?"

Bridget.—It's nothing he did til me, nor I to him, that's all—only says I—"Och Docthor, Docthor dear, its me tooth that aches intirely, sure it is; and I've a min to have it drawn out, and it plaze ye?" "Do it pane ye?" says he to me. "Och murther, can ye ax me that now, and me the way down have to see about it?" says I. "Sure have I slept day or night, these three days? Haven't I tried all manes to quiet the jumping devil? Didn't they till me to put raw brandy in my mouth, but would it stay there, jist till me now? No, the devil a bit could I keep it up in me mouth, though its far from the likes of me to be drinking the brandy without extrame provocation, or by accident." So thin the docthor took his iron instruments in a hurry, with as little consermment of mind as Barney would swape the knives and forks from the table. "Be aizy, Docthor," says I—"there's time enough—you'll be in such a hurry when your turn comes, I'm thinkin." "O, well," said the docthor, "and yet no ready now, ye may come the morrow."—"Indalo, Docthor, I'll no stir from this seat wid this cold tooth alive in me jaw," says I; "so ye may just prepare, but ye made not come slashing at a poore Christian body, as if ye would wring her neck off first, and draw her tooth at yer conviance afterwards. Now clap on yer pinchers, but mind ye get hout of the right one—ye may aizly see it by its aching and jumping." "O," says he, "I'll get the right one," and with that he jabbed a small razoz looking weapon into me mouth, and cuts up me gooms, as if it were nought but could mate for hash for breakfast. I sat still because the murthering thaef me down with knee, and the gripe of his iron in my lug. He then gave me one awful wring hard enough to wring a wet blanket as dry as gunpowder. Didn't I think the day of judgment was come, tell me? Didn't I see the red fire o' the pit? I felt me head fly off me shoulders, and looking up saw something monstrous bloody in the docthor's wrenching iron—"Is that me head ye've got there," says I—"No, it's only yer tooth," he made answer. "May be it is," said I, as my eyes began to open, and by putting my hand up, I found the outside of my face on, though I felt as if all the inside had been hauled out. I had taken a dollar and a half to pay for the operation—thinking it would be enough for a poor woman to pay; but I thought I'd just ask him the price. So says I, "Docthor, how much may ye ax beside the throuble?" "Fifty cints," says he—"Fifty cints?" says I—"Sure I've not been submitting three days to that tyrant of a tooth for fifty cints,—Troth this same tath-pulling is not so very expansive, and I'm much obligeid til ye, Docthor."

A Heroine.—Further accounts relating to the late atrocious occurrence at New Orleans, state that "the wife of Judge Burruzeau performed a principal and courageous part in the affair. Had it not been for her timely interference the assailants would have succeeded in their nefarious purpose. Four of them had seized the Judge, and whilst he was struggling, she rushed into the room with his sword, with which she killed one, when he was almost down, by a back-handed stroke. She herself grappled another. A negro is also stated to have fought most furiously for his master and mistress."

BENJAMIN LORING & CO. 122 State street, have just received by the Cameo, from London, a new article of the Steel Pen, manufactured by Perryian, the original inventor of this most wonderful improvement.

Perryian Regulating Flat Spring Pen.—The flexibility given to this pen by the flat spring is superior to that found in the best quill, it may be made harder or softer, by placing the pen in water or in the heat; will write on any sort of paper with the greatest freedom and facility.

Perryian Regulating Spring Pen.—The novel invention, by means of the regulating spring, commands all the ease and freedom of the best quill; it may also be made harder or softer, to suit the hand or taste of the writer, by simply moving the spring higher or lower, according to the degree of flexibility required.

Perryian Elastic Pen Holder, with appropriate Pens.—The novel construction of the elastic holder, confers in the Perryian pen, advantages, by imparting an agreeable fitness and elasticity, rendering it more easily and conveniently used in its action, than it would be if it were not so.

Perryian Fountain Pen.—Warranted to write more than fifty lines with one dip of ink.

Double Patent Perryian Pen, with patent elastic holder.—This invention has obtained for the inventors two Patents from His Britannic Majesty, and also two patents from His Majesty the King of France, and is used in more than forty government offices.

Mr. B. L. & Co. have also on hand twenty other kinds of patent pens, direct from the manufacturers.
